AT THE EASTERN STAR ANNUAL FUN BANQUET

GLEN EYRIE CHAPTER, NO. 237,
HAS BRILLIANT INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

In the brilliantly lighted and tastefully adorned Masonic Temple the Order of the Eastern Star solemnly installed its officers for the ensuing year, Thursday night. The Christmas season has a special significance for the order and the ceremony, with its imposing and appropriate ritual, was consonant to the season. There was a full attendance of the members of the order and also a large contingent of friends who were deeply impressed by the beautiful symbolic ritual.

Decorated with white carnations and a profusion of greenery the large hall of the Temple looked Christmas-like and bright. Officers for 1916 were gowned in white, carrying shower bouquets of violets and ferns.

The musical program preceding the installation was short, but none the less beautiful. Mr. Cecil Crandall gave two violin selections. Owing to the illness of Mr. Owen C. Emery, Mrs. Leora Cammack sang the vocal numbers.

The installing officers were: Fredonia Borthick, installing officer; Della Echols, installing marshal; Luella M. Bullis, installing chaplain; Dora Gibson, installing officer.

Officers installed for 1916, were Mary M. Emery, Worthy Matron; Warren Roberts, Worthy Patron; Fern A. Roberts, Associate Matron; Ruby C. Borthick, Secretary; Leam Etta Fish, Treasurer; Lillian Rae Beamon, Conductress; Della Echols, Associate Conductress; Anna Imler Smith, "Adah;" May Cornwell, "Ruth;" Cecil Evans, "Esther;" Marion Ogg, "Martha;" Josephine Woolsey, "Electa;" Alice M. Carvel, "Ward;" Robert M. Grumbling, "Sentinel;" Ella Irene Bradley, Chaplain; Harriet Nichols, Marshal; Lillian Peckham, Organist.

Following the program, the new Worthy Matron, Mrs. Emery, gave a short address, as did also the newly installed Worthy Patron, Warren Roberts, these being followed by a few words from the retiring Worthy Matron, Fredonia Borthick, and Worthy Patron, A. E. Beamon.

Miss Cora Hickman, first Worthy Matron of the Glen Eyrie Chapter, made a few well chosen remarks. Mr. Beamon made the presentation speech at which time Miss Borthick was given the Past Worthy Matron gift in the form of a beautiful emblem pin of the order, after which, Miss Borthick was presented with a handsome lavalliere. Miss Borthick, with a few words presented the past Worthy Patron with a handsome book holder. Mrs. Emery, new Worthy Matron, made gifts to each installing officer of a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

PINK PREDOMINATING

In an attractive setting of pink and white carnations intermingled with fern fronds, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Cowan presided at a perfectly appointed dinner on Friday evening in their home at 114 Orange St., having as special guest, Mrs. Rebecca Flint of Las Vegas, New Mexico, cousin of Mrs. Cowan. Other guests numbering Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Collins of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Cowan and little daughter Roberta, Miss Ida Cowan, Mr. Gilbert Cowan and Master Waldo E. Cowan.

FARIES' CHRISTMAS DISPLAY

One of the most attractive Christmas displays in town is that in the window and store of The Men's Shop, 1109 W. Broadway, H. H. Faries, proprietor. Mr. Faries has been fortunate enough to secure a very fine selection of men's goods for the season. His window shows a line of silk shirts that is unique of its kind. There are also the very latest things in ties of every description. The counter display of men's ties is exceedingly complete. Everything else in this up-to-date store is in keeping with what is advertised. It would be difficult to get a better selection of handkerchiefs, for instance, while in belts, slippers, sweaters and bathrobes there is everything that can aid Christmas purchasers to make up their mind. Faries' is undoubtedly one of the best places in town for men's presents.

Mr. Faries, who has been in business in Glendale for some years is convinced that the business outlook is getting steadily better. "Every year," he said, "I find my business improving and extending. This year the purchasing started a little late for the Christmas season, but it is better than last year. People are buying more and seem to have more money."

PLEASANT ANNUAL ENTERTAINMENT OF INTERMEDIATE INSTRUCTORS

Perhaps the very jolliest of all pre-Christmas happenings was the "Get Together" banquet, an annual affair, given by all instructors of the Intermediate school, taking place at the Richardson D. White home at 1431 West Third St., Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Twenty-four covers were arranged at one long table artistically done in low mounds of holly, mistletoe and royal poinsettias with single sprays strewn over the snow-like cloth. Original conceits of a jolly butler bearing a steaming plum pudding on a tray, as place favors were done by Miss Jones, supervisor of the art department in Intermediate and all grammar schools.

Mr. White, superintendent of Glendale graded schools acted as toastmaster for the evening. The first called upon was Wade Craig, an instructor of last year, toasting "The Ladies" responded to by Miss Noble with "The Gentlemen." Others contributing in delightful, humorous or serious manner, whichever was expected of the speaker, were Mr. Donnell, "Holly and Mistletoe," Miss Wetherby, "Harmony;" Miss Jackson, "Nouns and Pronouns;" Miss Malory, "The Ford;" Miss White "The Reptile;" Miss Schultz, "The Great Dane;" Miss Hunter, "Smiles;" Miss Thayer, "The Hammer;" Miss Wooldrige, "Eats;" Miss Medcalf, "Love;" Mr. Clark, "Dignity;" Mr. Lehman, "Handwriting on the Wall;" Miss Blackburn, "Sunflowers;" Mr. Polley, "Single Blessedness;" Miss Jones, "Moving Pictures;" Mrs. White, "School Marm;" The special guests being Mrs. Richardson D. White and daughter Helen, Mrs. Clark, Miss Polson, Mr. Noble, Mr. Jones and Messrs. Craig and Donnell instructing at Intermediate last year.

Following the banqueting hours the guests enjoyed a real Christmas tree, each being presented with a "joke" gift, the last hours of the evening were filled with music and games.

Mrs. White as hostess-in-chief was ably assisted by Miss Wooldrige and Miss Medcalf.

LOOPING LOOP AT NIGHT

Flying amid a blaze of magnesium sparks, Katharine Stinson, the darling girl aviator, looped the loop, in the night sky, Friday night, to the awe and admiration of the crowd of spectators who watched the gyrations and airy circles of the biplane, from the streets of Glendale. It is to be regretted that Miss Stinson goes to San Antonio, Texas, for Christmas. The people of Glendale would enjoy seeing again so dazzling and daring a display of mastery over the flying machine. It is only a few months ago since Miss Stinson achieved fame for herself in Chicago by emulating the exploits of the male members of the aviation force there. She is only 19 years old, but is one of the most daring aviators in the field. She has been flying for more than four years.

DINNER HONOREES

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dow of Los Angeles will be the honored guests at a beautifully appointed dinner party to be given this evening at the attractive North Louise St. home of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Lockwood. Red and white predominating in the table decoration of sweetly scented carnations, intermingled with ferns. Hand limned cards will mark covers for the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. R. Wright of Inglewood, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shook, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Keleher, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Abell and the presiding host and hostess. A game of 500 will while away the evening hours.

GRIPPE EPIDEMIC ABATES

There is some abatement in the outbreak of la grippe that has been affecting the city for some weeks past. It is not uncommon to have such an outbreak at this time of the year. The grippé seems to come with the first rains and Glendale may be thankful that it has not been worse than it is. In Pomona, for instance, it was reported that 800 cases were being treated by the doctors, or had been reported, while there were many cases that had not been reported.

FUNERAL SERVICE READ

The funeral services of Mignen Frances Gordon, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gordon, took place at the family home, 235 South Isabel St., this morning, Rev. E. H. Willisford, officiating.

LANSING SENDS AUSTRIA SHARP NOTE

SECRETARY OF STATE USES STRONG LANGUAGE IN SECOND COMMUNICATION CONCERNING THE ANCONA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—There is no hesitation or equivocation in the note sent to Austria today by Secretary Lansing, regarding the sinking of the Ancona, with the resultant death of hundreds of women and children, among whom were Americans. The note is brief and sharp and does not permit of an evasive or quibbling answer. Secretary Lansing uses strong language in the communication. Before its dispatch the note was read and approved by President Wilson.

It is believed from the appearance of the wreck that fire had broken out on board the vessel and had reached the gasoline reservoir. Ten of the crew who are missing are believed to have been killed by the explosion. Four survivors were brought ashore this morning, almost dead from exposure.

VILLISTAS BEING DRIVEN BACKWARD

CARRANZISTA GENERAL TRAVINOS FORCES VILLA'S SOLDIERS TO RETIRE IN DIRECTION OF CHIHUAHUA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LAREDO, Texas, Dec. 18.—Doggedly fighting but steadily retreating, the Villistas are being forced backward in the direction of Chihuahua. The general in charge of the Carranzista troops is Travinos, who has had long and arduous experience in the fighting of the various revolutions of Mexico. It is not thought that Villa is absolutely beaten as yet and it is hoped that he may be induced to cease fighting and settle down peaceably under the Carranzista government. Negotiations to that end are under way.

I intend to clean it up if it should cost me my life."

LAS VEGAS BANDITS ESCAPE TRAP

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 18.—Under-sheriff Frank McLean telegraphed today that the bandits from Las Vegas, who had been corralled in the hills near Goff's by two posses, had escaped. The two parties had quartered the brush for the robbers and finally marked them down in a canyon, but they managed to get out and make their "getaway."

GLENDAL IS MORAL

CHIEF HERALD SAYS EFFORTS OF POLICE HAVE RESULTED IN LESSENING OF CRIME

"On the whole," said Chief of Police Herald to a representative of The Glendale Evening News, "Glendale is a moral city. Naturally we have had crimes in the year that is so rapidly leaving us; but these crimes have been beyond police control and some of the worst of them have resulted from conditions outside of the supervision of the police."

"Glendale has a very small police force and quite a large territory to cover. Our small force has all along been working over time and putting in extra hours, especially at night, in order to see that the citizens of Glendale might have thorough protection."

"Looking at the result of all this supervision we find that there has been considerable diminution of crime during the past year and nothing of a very serious nature with the exception of one shooting affray between Mexicans, as a result of which one man was badly crippled. Most of the crime in the Mexican quarter comes from too free an indulgence in low-grade wine. Wherever we have come in contact with such conditions we have done our best to abate them. It will be observed that as a result of the stringent manner in which the sporadic Mexican drunkenness has been followed up and punished there have been fewer cases of this nature of late."

"It must not be imagined that white delinquents in this respect are allowed to escape. They are followed up and get just as strict justice meted out to them as do the Mexicans. Judge Whomes is no respecter of persons when it comes to the administration of the law. This week a white man, for drunkenness, received a sentence of $25 or 25 days."

"Glendale has had two or three burglaries and a number of petty thefts throughout the year. The perpetrators of some of these have been detected and punished; in other cases the criminals have escaped. There is ample opportunity given robbers of this description to get away with considerable hauls of personal property on account of the carelessness with which many people leave their houses unprotected and not even properly secured. There are thieves who make a practice of coming into a city like Glendale and studying the habits of some of its citizens and learning the likelihood of obtaining plunder. Having thus, as it were, 'marked down' their prey, they come at the convenient season and get a 'haul.'"

"With the exception of such cases, which, during the past year, have been very few, there has been little other crime in Glendale. The graver crimes are not to be found here. There may have been other instances of gambling; if so they were not of a nature calculated to attract attention and the moment the department gets on to any such case arrest and punishment follows."

"There will never be lacking in Glendale, as long as I am at the head of the police department, a strict watch and care for the moral and material interests of the people. The good citizens of the town may go to sleep at all times conscious that there is a vigilant watch and ward over the slumbering community."

UNIDENTIFIED SUICIDE

The Scovern-Letton-Frey Undertaking company was called to San Fernando Thursday evening to take charge of the remains of a young man who had committed suicide. The body was found about four miles south of San Fernando in a barn on the west side of San Fernando Road. Life had been extinct for a matter of two days before the body was discovered. The remains are now at the Scovern-Letton-Frey parlors awaiting identification.

The man was apparently about thirty years of age. He was dressed in a gray suit somewhat worn and wore a new cowboy Stetson hat and No. 8 shoes. He was 5 feet seven inches tall, had brown eyes and dark hair and a short Roman nose. The only mark of identification on the body is a black mole on the right foot.

To all appearances the deceased was a young man of refinement. There was no indication of the tramp about his person.

He committed the rash deed by shooting himself through the right temple with a Harrington-Richardson automatic revolver.

BABEL OF THE NATIONS

CAFES OF SALONIKI FULL OF MEN OF ALL LANDS DISCUSSING PROBABLE COURSE OF THE WAR

SALONIKI, Nov. 2. (By Mail)—The sun goes down like an explosion in a paint factory in this part of the world. All the mixtures of tongues and uniforms and ships and flags of the various armies and navies centering in Saloniki are not in greater contrast than the melange of color which fills the evening skies as the sun sinks nightly behind the peak of Olympus where the Greek gods lived and played. Even greater than the variety of color in the city or the sky is the variety of opinion in the cafes when the thousands of men of many races gather with the lighting of the evening lamps to talk over what the future holds.

There are Germans here; they didn't move away when the allied armies came. Saloniki is as much an ally headquarters as the headquarters in France, but the Germans haven't departed because Greece is neutral. The Germans are sure that sweeping past us 400 miles to the north, the German hordes are pouring through Serbia toward Turkey. Some of them think that the time is not far distant when the Germans will be in Saloniki, too. Then what will these British and French do? Where will they run to? But you don't hear Germans talking this way, loudly. It's among themselves they say such things, in their own cafes.

Englishmen are divided. Most of them are glad the allies came to Greece, others say it was a mistake. "Why won't Italy send an army to help us in Serbia?" asks a Frenchman. "She could easily send 100,000 men. She ought to do as much as the allies, for her future is at stake." "But Italy isn't fighting Germany. She's fighting Austria, and she's going to put up such a stiff fight on the Italian frontier that the Austrians will have to withdraw troops from Serbia to keep the Italians back," explains an Italian newspaper correspondent.

Turks, in their red fezzes, sit in the same cafes in Saloniki with English officers fresh from the Turkish fighting in the Dardanelles. Two weeks ago the Englishman was popping away with his rifle at every fez he saw. Today he passes them as placidly as if peace had been declared. Indeed, it is a sort of peace that you see in Saloniki, a peace of shooting but not thinking. Bullets don't fly, but opinions do. All the different opinions held in every corner of the world regarding the World War may be found here in this city of 185,000 persons and every evening after the sun has set the pace with his riot of color in the Olympian sky, the occupants of the old Greek city fill, with their riot of opinion, the Salonikan cafes. Through it all there's a tension in the atmosphere. Serbian refugees are in the city from Belgrade, Nish and Uskub. They are living reminders of that cyclone of war that is raging to the north of us. Will that cyclone sweep past Greece and leave it unharmed? Or will the Germans come down to Saloniki? And if they come shall we people of the city flee as the Serbians have done? Or will the Greeks go with the Germans and try to drive the allied armies out of Greece? All the men of Greece are mobilized; you can see them digging trenches along the Aegean sea as you come toward Saloniki.

Will the Grecian king give the word to his army to fight the allies; the Queen of Greece, you know—his wife—is a sister of the Kaiser of Germany, and the king's word is law, now that all the men of Greece are no longer mere citizens, but have become soldiers. Or perhaps the Greeks may go with the allies; is that possible? Will they try a dash into Bulgaria? Or will the Bulgarians try a dash at Saloniki, this city where Bulgarians and Greeks fought one whole night through the streets, three years ago with the result that Saloniki over night became a Greek city, while the Bulgarians fled.

All of these questions you hear discussed in the excited cafes of Saloniki these warm, semi-oriental nights. Just now all the questions that the world is asking about what is going to happen in the neighborhood of Saloniki are being asked in Saloniki itself. The folks here don't know any more than the folks in New York. But will the answer be any more important to them, near as they are to the scene, than it will be to New York? What happens in the Balkans, within the next few weeks may send tidal waves to the ends of the earth and to the ends of human history.

FRESH WATER FISH CULTURE

In days of old, fishponds used to be an adjunct to every monastery and every barony in England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Spain, and Italy, just as the lamprey pond used to be an adjunct to every patrician house in the Roman empire. The breeding of freshwater fish for home consumption was as common in the old countries as the poultry yard is in this land. There seems no reason why there should not be a revival of the practice of breeding fish for domestic purposes.

One can easily see how excellent an adjunct a fishpond would be to any family. They could be established in country places on farms with little trouble and much good would result therefrom. In cities or places like Glendale, of course, there would not be room for individual ponds, but what should prevent the city from establishing a common pond of this character.

The United States Department of Commerce has had this subject under consideration for some time and has even made valuable experiments in the cultivation of freshwater fish in the newly created irrigation lakes. The State Natural History Survey of Wisconsin also has had the matter under study. At Madison, Wis., an extended study of the food of selected species of fishes throughout the year is being undertaken. The importance of problems of this character may be understood when it is realized that the abundance of any fish in a given body of water is limited by the minimum quantity of its food present at the time when it is required.

At Lake Cooper, formed by the great dam at Keokuk, Iowa, exceptional opportunity is afforded to learn from actual experience the effect of water-power development upon the general condition of fish life in the larger river and for studies on the migration and habits of fishes. The Bureau is endeavoring to continue systematic observations in this region.

There is not the slightest doubt but that the cultivation of freshwater fishes would create a desirable and convenient collateral food supply for the home. The department of agriculture is encouraging the breeding and rearing of fish in small ponds on farms. It is also indicated that municipalities will be aided and encouraged in creating and keeping up such ponds, or rather lakes, in connection with the cities, and supplying the fish bred therein at a cheap rate to the people.

Bass, bream and buffalo fish are under observation for this purpose at some of the observation stations. It is found that the latter fish attains a large size in ponds and lakes; that it is without cannibalistic tendencies and is seemingly adapted for practical methods of artificial feeding. It is likely that this fish will be recommended for culture in farm ponds.

This would add to the farm fare a very excellent variety of food, in places where trout streams and lakes are not found. It would take away the sameness of diet that is so often complained of and to people of a struggling class would prove a welcome addition to the table.

AMERICAN VERSUS FOREIGN DIPLOMACY

American diplomacy may at times have been slow and in some instances may have erred on the side of leniency and evidenced too much of a desire to consider the other country's point of view; but at least it has been sincere. There have been times when foreign countries have termed the policy pursued in dealing with particular foreign relations "shirt-sleeve diplomacy;" yet there is something preferable even in the bluntness of the man unaccustomed to the niceties of foreign relationships to the savvy that temporizes and prevaricates over grave situations. Foreign diplomacy is often a very excellent illustration of Hamlet's dictum that "one may smile and smile and be a villain."

Just at present this country is being treated to a very pertinent illustration of the difference between American diplomatic ways and those of foreign countries in the sharp exchange of "pourparlers" with Austria over the shameful sinking of the Ancona by an Austrian submarine. This act of inhuman cruelty, by which hundreds of women and children were shot or drowned by the action of the submarine which fired on the unfortunates as they were struggling in the water, instead of being disowned by the Austrian government, is commended and condoned as a military necessity and the hypocritical comment is added that if American citizens do not wish to be shot or drowned they had better stay at home or not sail in foreign liners.

President Wilson has demanded the prompt disowning of the inhuman act and ample apologies and compensation. The Austrian diplomats reply by saying they hope nothing will occur to mar the smooth course of the relations that have subsisted between the two countries. As a matter of fact, the relations between the two countries have not been at all smooth and only recently this country has had to dismiss with ignominy the diplomatic representative of Austria, Dumba, on account of his plottings in this country.

In answer to the American government's demand for repudiation of the act of sinking the Ancona, Austria returns a flippant and almost insolent answer, as the Washington dispatches announce. It would seem that Austrian diplomats refuse to consider this country seriously. It is even whispered in Vienna that the United States can be insulted with impunity. There is certainly something very singular in the immediate assumption of the role of murderer on the part of Austria the moment the Germans announced that they would cease such practices. It is hinted that there is but one policy in the case of the Central Alliance and that is Germany's, and that Austria would never have dared to sink the Ancona had she not got the hint from Germany.

However that may be, there is one thing manifest in the latest announcement by Secretary Lansing to Baron Zweidenek that what the United States wants is not smooth speeches but instant compliance with its demands. That is the plain speaking for which United States diplomacy is justly famous and it is extremely distasteful to foreigners. They would like the United States to play a game of diplomacy according to their rules and it is needless to say they would beat the American diplomats at that game. It is rather disconcerting for the foreigner to be faced up to plain truth and unvarnished statement, for as Satan says in his sermon in Bailey's "Festus," they "hate truth as snails hate salt."

It is refreshing to see the Austrian "boulder," who thinks himself an aristocrat, pinned down to the simple truth. That is a diet abhorrent to him and it would be a good thing if he could get so much of it that he would take himself, his document thieves, his assassins, his dynamiters and all his evil works off to Vienna or elsewhere.

OBITUARY OF SAMUEL WEBB

Samuel Webb, whose death occurred Dec. 16, was born in Petersburg, Ill., July 7, 1841. He moved thence, with his parents, to Springfield, where he often saw Lincoln, and attended his first court trial. Later he went to Beardstown, from which place he enlisted in the Civil War.

When the war closed he went to Des Moines, Iowa, where three years later he married Miss Belle Huntington. The couple lived thirty-three years in Des Moines. Six children were born to them, of whom three survive and with their mother were with him in his last illness. They are Mrs. John W. McMillen, 1640 W. 39th Place, Los Angeles; Dr. C. A. Webb, 1450 Lomita avenue, and Walter R. Webb, 1443 Riverside Drive, both of Glendale. Mr. Webb also left seven grandchildren, whom he greatly loved.

During his residence in Des Moines he was engaged in the wholesale grocery business both for himself and with the Pratt-Warfield-Howell Co. When, fourteen years ago, he was obliged to seek a milder climate, he moved to Los Angeles and accepted a position with the R. L. Craig firm of that city, remaining with them till about a year ago, when advancing years warned him to retire from business. A few months later a fall caused concussion of the brain, which brought on the illness of which he died.

Between the brief lines of these simple annals should be understood the daily record of a most kindly, exemplary life as husband, father, friend and neighbor. All his wide circle of friends, both here and in Des Moines, will long remember "Sam" Webb for his genial manner, his whimsical humor and his utter self-forgetfulness.

PERSONALS

Mr. Henry L. Legrande of 1442 West Third St. is not ill, as reported in Friday's issue, but his son, Master Louis Legrande.

Mrs. L. C. Morris of the Hotel Lilly, Los Angeles, is spending the week end as the guest of her sisters-in-law, Mrs. F. W. Anderson of 320 Cedar St. and Mrs. Chas. R. Norton of 373 W. 3rd.

The Kennedy place at 111 East Second street has been leased for three years to Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Shedondy of Los Angeles, who will occupy the place at once. This deal was made by F. H. Tuttle of 1106 West Broadway.

Rev. E. H. Willisford attended an ecclesiastic council of the First Congregational churches at the Church of the Messiah in Los Angeles, this Friday evening, on the occasion of the departure of Rev. Stanley Ross Fisher, who goes east to Fall River, Mass., where he will take charge of the First Congregational church, which has an endowed income of $100,000 a year besides the regular income.

LIFE AT GLENDALE HIGH

So our dramatic stars may have More Hippodromic Lighting
The tinker plied his tongs and snips,
And Europe still is fighting.
The latest modes disclose some facts
In manner almost Sapphic,
We fear the guiles
Of present styles
Will greatly clog the traffic.

Some husky lads from Burbank Hi
Came down to show their skill,
But from the way they kicked around
We think they need a pill.
Howe made a dandy earnest talk
For those who are in need—
Bring rubber balls
Or paper dolls
Or any kind of feed.

O, where, O, where has school spirit gone,
O, where, O, where is he?
It's time to get a little pep,
A sleepy bunch are we.
The week before the Yuletide feast
We have the latter half
Of every day
To shop or play.
And Davie makes us laugh.

The jokes this year are pretty good,
So sed our little Kate.
We had to chase back home again
For being twopence late.
Earl brought a pretzel into class
To make a German curve,
The French do not
Quite hit the spot—
O, Mother, what a nerve!

Fred Dodge will have one battleship
And Henry yet another
But all the guns will be removed
So calm yourself, my brother.
"Now come to school at half past eight,
Arouse, thou sleepy elf."
It's hardly light
That time of night,
Get up and see yourself.

Hand in your stories for that book
The Seniors are preparing.
Some people keep a grouch all day,
Our happiness impairing.
Hen. Ford denied that he would build
A submarine mosquito
We always knew
'Twould never do
'Twould be an incognito.

Soup will be served to warm us up
And we can bring the bread.
Our boys at Holly did their best
To win for black and red.
Covina's nerve is getting weak
And all her knees are shaky;
We're sure to beat
Or meet defeat,
And Margaret missed her Packy.*
*See Hollywood.

TROPICO

Miss Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith is staging this wonderful story and at least 500 artists will assist in interpreting the beautiful story as depicted by this clever and versatile author. Friday night's performance will be given at the old Normal school building, while Christmas night's reproduction will be given in Exposition building.

Miss Elsie Anderson, assisted by her sister, Miss Anna Anderson, very charmingly entertained at her home on Virginia Place, complimentary to Miss Nellie Ford, the charming sister of Rev. Don Ford of the Methodist Episcopal church. Brilliant hued carnations combined with trailing ferns, throughout the rooms, formed the pretty decorations of red and green, suggestive of the coming holiday season. Progressive games with merry conversation filled the evening with enjoyment for the charming honoree and the twenty-five or more guests. In every detail was the happy Yuletide suggested, including the dainty refreshments and the cunning favors and prizes of diminutive Santa Clauses, Christmas trees and juvenile toys.

IMPORTANT MEETING

There will be an important meeting of the Fraternal Brotherhood Lodge, No. 304, in I. O. O. F. hall, Monday evening, December 20. There will be election of officers and all members are requested to be present.
